SHORTAGE AT THE GAS-WORKS. City Said to Have Lost $10,000 from

Tar Contracts Alone.

Just what the city of Richmond has lost by the loose management of the affairs of the gas-works for ten years prior to the beginning of the administration of Super-intendent Knowles will probably never be known. In fact, it appears that there is no possibility of all the facts ever coming to light.

Colonel W. P. Smith, the accountant appointed by the special committee of investigation to make an examination of the books, has concluded his work as far as it was possible for him to do so, and has submitted his report, which was printed in yesterday's Dispatch. His investigation, however, was greatly impeded by the terribly mutilated condition in which he found the books. Some of them are said to have had many pages wholly torn out, besides being otherwise defaced and mutilated.

besides being otherwise defaced and mutilated.

It is claimed that the loss has probably reached $190,000 or more, including destructiveness to the plant, loose management, superfluous operatives, &c. Colonel Smith, during the course o, his examination, made up a statement as to what loss the city must have suffered by the tar contracts at 55 cents a barrel, as compared to an average price of tar elsewhere during these years, which statement showed the city to have suffered $25,000 to $40,000 loss.

While Colonel Smith has concluded his labors, the Superintendent is making thorough inquiry into the disposition made of the ameniacal liquor, and he may have the special committee's attention directed to this matter.

Chairman Gunst, of this committee, has not decided when he will call the body together for the purpose of formulating a report to the Council, and as yet the nature of this report has not been discussed by the members. It will very probably be prepared by or with the assistance of City-Attorney Meredith, and will be quite interesting.

A perfect work would have been 189 points, while 60 points were necessary to pass the examination. As will be seen, none of the contestants failed to reach that mark. The work of Mr. D. S. Carter, who came out ahead, was very fine on each piece of apparatus, and he received liberal applause from the spectators in the gallery. While the score was being made up Mr. Paul Weinert gave an exceedingly clever exhibition on the parallel bars, horizontal bar, and side horse.

BLACKSBURG BOYS TO COME.

They Will Attend the Davis Monument Corner-Stone Laying.

The Board of Visitors of the Virginia Agricultural and Mechanical College at Agricultural and Mechanical College at Blacksburg, were in session at the Exchange Hotel Thursday night and a part of yesterday. In addition to President McBryde there were present Messrs. C. E. Vawter, J. Thompson Brown, S. Hamilton Graves, Mr. Matthews, Joseph W. Thomas, H. L. Maynard, and Secretary W. W. Hurt.

The board considered some matters of legislation and, among other things, arranged for the cadets to attend the laying of the corner-stone of the monument to President Jefferson Davis in June next. The question of changing the vacation from summer to winter was not discussed.

The question of changing the vacuused.

The following resolution was adopted:
The Board of Visitors of the Virginia Agricultural and Mechanical College, at their first meeting held since the destruction by fire of the rounda and annex buildings of the University of Virginia, hasten to assure the Board of Visitors of that institution that we deplore equally with themselves the calamitous less of these historic buildings; that we heartily commend their strenuous efforts to replace them, and that we hope their plans will meet with the liberal support of the public and the General Assembly of the State.

LEE CAMP'S WEEKLY MEETING.

A Large Attendance and Interesting Session Last Night.

There was a very large attendance of the members of Lee Camp at the regu-lar meeting last night, Colonel James T. the members of Lee Camp at the regular meeting last night. Colonel James T. Gray, the commander, was in the chair. A letter was read from R. A. Dunlop, Esa. secretary of the Transportation Committee of the Confederate Veterans' Reunion, asking for valuable information, which the adjutant was directed to furnish. The camp was gratified that this committee was doing such good and active work in the cause of the reunion. All arrangements in regard to the annual sermon on the 18th of January have been completed, and the sermon will be preached by Rev. (Captain) George C. Vanderslice, at Union Station church at 7:30 o'clock P. M. As this will be the first church in which Lee Camp has had services on Church Hill, it is expected that there will be a very large attendance of members to hear their old comrade.

The arrangements for the grand opening-night are in the hands of the Building Committee.

A splendid address was made to the camp by Major J. W. Foster, of Pickett-Buchanan Camp, of Norfolk.

Death of Mr. Jenifer Garnett.

Death of Mr. Jenifer Garnett.

Mr. Thomas Jenifer Garnett, son of the late Dr. Jenifer Garnett, died Thursday night at his residence, No. 146 Floyd avenue, in the 25th year of his age.

Deceased had been a sufferer from consumption for the past three years, but although very much wasted he was never confined to his bed, and only the day before his death he was on the street.

He went to Florida some time ago to try and recover his hesith, but without avail, and returning home again he faded gradually away.

Up to the time that he was attacked by the disease he was employed by the firm of Warner Moore & Co., by whom he was highly esteemed.

He was a member of the Marshall-Street Christian church, and his funeral will take place from there Sunday afterneon at 3 o'clock.

Mrs. Annie Stratton, of Nelson county, the had been visiting friends in this city, ied suddenly Thursday night at the resi-ence of Mr. C. F. Tucker, No. 1208 Twendence of Mr., C. F. Tucker, No. 1288 Twenty-eighth street.

She had been spending the evening with the family of Mr. Tucker, and expected to leave for home yesterday morning. Just as she was in the act of bidding her friends good night she put her hands to her head and exclaimed that she was in pain. She expired a few moments later. Her death has been a great shock to her relatives and friends. Her husband was telegraphed for. The remains will be taken to Nelson county, where they will be interred.

He Had the Watch.

Cornelius Brown (colored) was arrested yesterday upon the charge of being a suspicious charact.r. He was taken in custody by Policeman Vest, while endeavoring to dispose of a watch at D. Gillman's pawnshop, No. 111 west Broad street. The watch, which is a hunting-tso gold one, is at the Third Polices Station awaiting identification.

TALK ABOUT THE ACT

The Opposition Caucus Spends Some Time Discussing the Walton Law.

Will Not Suggest Radical Changes, and Is Opposed to Two Constables-Notes and Gossip in Legislative Circles.

The anti-Democratic members of the General Assembly having organized Thursday night by electing Sinator William M. Flanagan chairman and Delegate M. A. Coles secretary, held another conference of some two hours or more last night, to talk over what policy to pursue in general legislation, and espe-cially with reference to the Walton law.

This meeting was held in the office of Colonel John Bell Bigger, and there were sent about thirty out of the thirtyeight law-makers who can vote on all questions, but have not strength sufficient with closed doors, and it was agreed that the proceedings should be kept secret. The Steering Committee-consisting of Senators Flanagan, Hale, and McCune, and Delegates Coles, Sager, Einstein, Wate and Simpson, who have been at work in a quiet way-made a partial report, but it is understood that no important recommendations were submitted. The chief object of the opposition will be to effect the repeal or radical change of the Walton law, and it is believed that instead of sticking to the "fair-elections" bill agreed upon in the Petersburg conbill agreed upon in the Petersburg con-ference, they will try and secure suffi-cient Democratic support to secure cer-tain amendments to the statute. The us adjourned, subject to the chair-caucus adjourned, subject to the chairman's call.

Senator Wickham, it is understood, will soon present a bill proposing some changes in the Walton law. In conversation with a Dispatch man yesterday, he stid he was not going fo make any ill-advised move, and purposed ascertaining the views of the people in all sections of the State before drafting the bill. He is out and out opposed to the proposition to have two constables, instead of one, and says he will do nothing that will prove injurious to the Democratic party. His idea, though, is to draft a bill in which the various views on the Dres nt law may be harmonized without lessening its force.

which the various view has have may be harmonized without lessening its force.

The special joint committee appointed at the last session with reference t, the adjustment of the public debt of West Virginia will meet at the Exchange Hotel on the 16th of this month, to prepare a report to the General Assembly. It is pretty well known that the committee has falled to accomplish the object for which it was appointed. The following gentlemen constitute the committee: Delegates Moon (chairman), Downing, and Randolph Harrison; Senators Berry, Flood, and Wickham, and Judge W. F. Rhea, who was appointed by the Governor. Mr. Joseph Button is secretary.

After adjournment yesterday the Senate went into executive session, and confirmed the appointments of Messrs, Junius L. Wilson, of Cumberland, and W. H. Wampler, of Wise, as superintendents of schools. Mr. Wilson succeeds Mr. W. C. Carson, deceased, and Mr. Wampler succeeds Mr. W. T. Kennedy, resigned. During the roll-call for the election of Secretary of the Commonwealth yesterday, Delegate Wale, of Louisa, cast a complimentary vote for Colonel W. C. Elam.

A psculiar coincidence in connection

A p-cullar coincidence in connection with the House proceedings yesterday is that the bill introduced to amend the prosecution was introduced by a gentleman who bears the same surname as the swindler.

It is the windler with a Dispatch man yesterday, he laughingly said that he only who is quartered at the Jefferson. In the House, and as he had to pay that much beard at the Jefferson, he nad not the house, and as he had to pay that much beard at the Jefferson, he nad not heard at the Jefferson he nad who was defeated on the fact of the returns at the last election, was in the city yesterday, and stated that he purposed contesting Mr. Simms's right to his ageat.

There appears to be no doubt that Mr. Randolph Harrison, of Lynchburg, will have composite the more than the composition of the purposed contesting Mr. Simms's right to his ageat.

The Baptist Young People's Union of Yenable-Street church will celebrate their Yenable-Street dourch will celebrate purposed contesting Mr. Simms's right to his seat.

There appears to be no doubt that Mr. Randolph Harrison, of Lynchburg, will be made chairman of the Committee on Frivil ges and Elections, before whom the contests will come.

The office of Judge of the Hustings Court of Fetersburg will'be filled at this session, and Delegate William F. McRahas been urged by a number of his associates in the House to become a candidate for the office. He declines, however, to allow his name to go before the caucus.

MOZART AND HIS OPERAS.

Mr. Surette Delivers an Interesting

Lecture at Association Hall. Mr. Thomas Whitney Surette delivered

Mr. Thomas Whitney Surette delivered the fourth of his series of lectures on the "Development of Music" before a large audience at the Association Hall last night. The subject of the lecture was, "Mozart and His Operas." In sketching the principal events in the life of Mozart the lecturer characterized him as perhaps the most highly gifted musician who has ever lived, coming into the world with the keenest perceptions of musical things, and with the endowment of a genius, which—as far as writing pure melody is concerned—has never been equalled. His great contribution to the advancement of the art, aske from this, was in the redemption of the opera from the sway of the Italian style, and in the advancement of the form of the sonata and symphony over what Haydn had brought it to.

The lecturer drew a picture of the times in which Mozart lived, and of his own family life.

In general criticism of Mozart's music, the lecturer said its chief characteristics were its perfect form and its perfect melody. "It is like a Greek statue in the perfection of its outline," said he. "If any one deserves the title of classicist it is Mozart. He does not give us human passion, as Beethoven does, but like the caim face of a Greek god, expresses the most perfect serenity of soul."

Mr. Surette then went to the piano, and played the themes of one of the sonatus, showing how it was varied and developed. He carried out the same plan which he had begun in the last lecture, and the composition, when he came to play it had been so treated that it was very intelligible to the audience. All the different numbers on the programme were analyzed in this way, and the point of each one was brought out, thereby adding to the enjoyment and appreciation of each Mr. Surette was assisted in the illustrations by Mrs. H. T. Meloney, who sang the song, "The Violet," and an arta from The Marriage of Figuro, by Mrs. H. T. Meloney, who sang the song, "The Violet," and an arta from the same opera, and by Miss Zelle Minor, who, with Mr. Surette, played an

Knucks and a Rasor.

Charles Howard and Morris Walker got into a fight on the corner of Sixth and Broad streets yesterday morning, and the former attempted to batter his opponent with a pair of brass knucks, while Walker wielded a razor as a weapon of defence. The fight was brought to an end by Policemen Sowell and Austin before either of the combatants had received any injury. They were arrested upon the charge of fighting and carrying concealed weapons.

The Epworth League of Broad-Street Methodist Episcopal church beld its first social and entertainment last night, which proved to be the most enjoyable event ever held by the young people of that church. The programme was an elaborate one, and admirably carried out.

Instrumental music was furnished by Richmond's favorite symphony club, "The Old Dominion Sextette," who renderes several beautiful selections. These were followed by a most interesting address by Rev. Dr. Starr. Those wao have had the opportunity of hearing Miss Maud Porter sing will appreciate the pleasure that her purz, sweet soprano voice gave the audience.

Mr. George A. Carter rendered his favorite reading, "The Mosquito," and was in his best and funniest mood keeping his hearers in a roar of laughter without the slightest apparent effort. After the entertainment refreshments were served, and the balance of the evening was spent in social intercourse.

A burly colored man Thursday afternoon quietly walked off with a lo-gallon mineral-water retort which was on the sidewalk in front of H. A. Separk's sodawater depot, on Twenty-second and Main streets, and carried it to J. C. Smith's junk-shop, where he offered to sell it.
He was told to leave it and call for his money later. He seemed willing to this, and left the vessel with the junk dealer.
Mr. Separk notified the police of the theft and they found the retort a few hours later at the junk-shop. It is the property of Mr. Branch R. Allen, and had been left at Separk's to be charged with mineral-water. The solored man did not return for his money. Took the Retort with Him.

Colonel John Murphy, proprietor of Murphy's Hotel, is at present in New York, consulting architects with a view to making extensive improvements in his hotel. He has announced his intention of spending $30,000 in this way. His plans are to enlarge the lobby, put in a new elevator and lavatory, establish Turkish baths and improve the baggage-room, besides fitting up a new sample-room for the accommodation of commercial travellers. These improvements will not be made until after the Confederate reunion.

Mr. R. Christian was charged in the Police Court yesterday with peddling without a license. He had been selling soap without a license, it seems, for Mr. Moncure, who testified in court that he did not know one was required. A case similar to this is now pending in the Court of Appeals, and Justice Crutchfield decided to lay the case over until that tribunal renders its decision.

Sermons will be breached during the week by Very Rev. Father Cutler, vicar general; Rev. Father O'Reilly, and Rev. Father Tiernan.

CRESCENT CITY RACES.

Pleasant Weather Brings Out a Good Attendance.

NEW ORLEANS, December 6.—The crowd took advantage of the pleasant weather and attended the races to-day. The talent had about the same luck as J. Murphy won on his first two mounts here, Heretic and Orinds. Leo Mayer went down the line on Heretic, getting as good as 4 to 1 in some books, Heretic managed to win by the smallest of margins.

Hennie Falk, who is making books here and owns Del Coronado, did not seem to like the idea of getting beaten, and bid up the winner, who was entered at $500 to $800, at which price he got the imported Simon Magus colt.

The first race was one of the closest and most exciting ever seen here, four of them coming down together to the wire, where Verdi and Mate humped into each other and dropped, Tom Sayre winning by a head, from Miss Young, who was a neck ahead of Mate.

SUICIDE IN ALABAMA.

Hon. A. C. Hargrave, of Tuscaloosa, Shoots Himself.

BIRMINGHAM, ALA., December 6.-A special to the State-Herald from Tuscagpecial to the State-Herald from Tuscaloosa, Ala., says: This community was shocked to-day by the death of Hon. A.
C. Hargrave, which occurred at his residence here this afternoon. He died by his own hand. Hearing a pistol-shot in an upper room Mrs. Hargrave hastily entered the apartment and found her husband stretched dead on the floor. Near the body lay a smoking pistol, which, together with an ugiy hole in the right temple, from which the life-blood was flowing, told the terrible story more planly than words could have done.

For two weeks past Colonel Hargrave had been quite sick, and his ill-health had caused his mind to become tempecarally unbalanced, and it was while in this irresponsible condition that the fatal act was committed.

IT'S A MASTERPIECE.

Popiel's Famous Painting on Free Exhibition Here.

Were you at the World's Fair? And does your memory single out, in that vast gallery of art. Thaddeus Popiel's "After the Storm"? It was the praise of every critic, the coveted of every connoisseur, the favorite with every soul who stood before the greatest collection of nineteenth-century art. The canvas is a very large one, being twelve feet long, and, as you may remember, was catalogued at $16,000. It has been purchased by Mr. Andrew Saks, of the firm of Saks & Co., outfitters, and he has placed this famous painting on exhibition on the second floor of Saks & Co.'s store, Main and Eleventh streets. In this one effort the artist Poptel has raised himself to the toomost pinnacle of fame. He hasn't created: he has simply painted the strong, simple lines of nature. Because it is true to nature it appeals to every human being. It is perfect in execution. Himself a Polander, Poptel has painted that with which he was instinctively most familiar. of fame. He hasn't created; he has simply painted the strong, simple lines of nature. Because it is true to nature it appeals to every human being. It is perfect in execution. Himself a Polander, Popiel has painted that with which he was instinctively most familiar. The scene is a personate, form lad waste. which he was instinctively most familiar. The scene is a peasantry farm, laid waste by the fury of a storm, that is seen fading away like an apparition, leaving in its wake naught but destruction. The central figures are the peasant and his wife, who have hurried through the still wife, who have hurried through the still wet earth to the field of rye, their hopetheir all. The expression of utter despair on the countenance of the man one can almost imagine smothers a flush of angry disgust. His mind is in his face. There is his long and tedious laber, harvested before its time by the winds of heaven. Behind him, barefooted and sympathetic, stands his wife. With the tenderer emotions of her sex, she isn't reckoning the loss in the measure of hardships, and privations—the hunger that may follow—but of him, her husband—of his disappointment—of his blasted hopes. Popiel knows woman's nature, and he has painted this one true to her instincts.

and he has painted this one true to her instincts.

Some feet away stands the pairiarch of the family—too old to have had a hand in the labor lost, but every line in his face depicts the anguish a father feels for the discouragements of the son. And the children—boy and girl—stand huddled together, awed by the scene before them. Poplel dared the fates when he sought applause for his picture first in Munich, that home of artists, but it created a sensation. None the less so at the World's Fair and Midwinter Fair in San Francisco.

SALISBURY'S REPLY.

WILL ENGLAND SUBMIT VENERUE

LAN MATTER TO ARBITRATION! Paper Received by Ambassador

Pauncefote at Washington But May

WASHINGTON, December 6.-Lord Sallebury's reply to Secretary Olney's dispatch, which, according to the President's message, "called upon the British Government for a definite answer to the question whether it would or would not tween itself and Venezuela in its entirety to impartial arbitration," was received by Ambassador Pauncefote this evening. It will be handed to Secretary Olney tomorrow.

ply was transmitted to the British Am bassador here, another copy (according to diplomatic custom) was handed to Mr. Bayard, our Ambassador in London, through whom, last July, Secretary Otney's original note was presented to the British Foreign Office, Sir Julian Pauncefote being then absent in England on vacation.

This copy was undoubtedly Flaced in Mr. Bayard's hands some days before the President's message was presented to Congress. It is inconceivable that in a matter of such inperfance some inkling of its contents should not have been communicated by cable to Secretary Olney prior to the framing of the President's message.

Bearing in view this point, the passage in the message in which the President says that the United States will not be continued if one of the Powers concerned. "satisfied if one of the Powers concerned is permitted to draw an arbitrary line through the territory in debate and declare that it will submit to arbitration only the portion lying on one side of it" will be regarded as having much significance.

There is a promise in the President's message that when the text of the answer of the British Government, "expected shortly," shall have been received,
"further communication on the subject will probably be made to Congress."
Of course, this cannot be done while the President is absent duck-shooting, and the probabilities seem to be that the correspondence will not see the light until after the Christmas holidays unless it should be made public on the other side of the Atlantic.
